We save SaaS and Cloud software leaders from having to suffer “oh st Monday’s” (OSM). OSMs are those days where a new software version has gone live, and you know something is going to go wrong, but you don’t know what, when or where. You may literally be losing sleep because of this uncertainty.

We help you get your peace-of-mind back by finding and fixing your software’s bugs and security holes. You can do this by exploiting our Qsome automated software testing and Cloud Warrior penetration testing solutions.

Our automated software testing work has helped one of our clients cut testing time from 4 weeks to 2 days. It’s also enabled this client to turn hesitant, sales prospects into new revenue-generating customers by shipping new features on time, every month.

Our customers also see an average reduction in bugs in production of 72%. Our Cloud security work ensures that not only will your clients’ commercially-sensitive data be kept safe, but also that your livelihood and your team’s careers will be protected, beyond point-in-time penetration testing. Such results require us to effectively utilise great technology, best-practice processes and smart people. Our solution is the difference between happy end-users or unending sleepless nights and unhappy workdays. If any of this sounds familiar to you, should we talk?
