Senetas Security

Senetas is a leader in high-performance encryption security solutions. From certified high-assurance hardware and virtualised encryption for data networks, to SureDrop, the most secure file-sharing collaboration application providing data sovereignty control; all share a crypto-agile and quantum-ready platform.

Senetas solutions protect enterprise, government, defence, technology service provider and critical national infrastructure customers against data breaches and cyber-attacks. Leveraging end-to-end encryption and state-of-the-art key management, they provide long-term data protection without compromising network and application performance, or user experience.

Senetas encryption solutions are used in more than 40 countries. They are distributed and supported by Thales, the world's largest security company.
